

Add your resident or campaign group to our directory and help local people find you!

FixMyBlock.org aims to give social tenants living in tower blocks in England, Wales and Scotland the information and support they need to tackle problems with their homes, and in particular around fire safety and dangerous living conditions.

Clear action guides explain what tenants are entitled to in law; what they should do in order to get problems fixed; and, most importantly, how to take further effective action if landlords aren't providing safe homes in accordance with their legal responsibilities.

Stories from other tower block tenants around the country demonstrate what can be achieved, and how to avoid the pitfalls they may have overcome.

We emphasise the benefits that can come from collective action; the value of well organised residents' groups; and the importance of making your housing problems known to the wider world via media campaigns, events and marches.

We're building a directory of residents' groups, campaign groups, and support organisations for tower block tenants across the UK.

If you know about a group that isn't listed yet, please tell us about it by emailing contact@fixmyblock.org
